

Gambia

Charlton Manor raised money to pay for the training of a teacher in Gambia who is now teaching at a temporary school named after its founder 'Ceesay'.

The children absolutely love learning and feel a huge sense of pride going to school every day as not all children are able to attend school likewise do in the U.K.

A new school is due to be built sometime this year and one of its classrooms will be named after Charlton Manor as a thank you for all our help and we will continue to support 'Ceesay' in the future.

